

Shining the light in the CBD with Hip Hop dance

On 25-26 June, the 132-year-old chapel at Ann Street Church of Christ was filled with the distinctly modern beats of Hip Hop music as the church hosted its new outreach program for young people, DanceFest.

More than 30 teenagers from across Brisbane travelled into the city for two days of intensive dance coaching with Christian artists MnB Entertainment.

“The group learnt some of the latest dance moves on the Hip Hop circuit and showcased their new skills in a city park to the delight of a crowd of CBD workers on their lunch break,” Jason Brown, Ann Street Church of Christ Ministry Team Leader, said.

DanceFest’s theme was “Using your talents for God” and participants spent time in small groups for prayer and encouragement from the Bible.

“The event gave young people a unique opportunity to invest in their talents and faith,” Jason said.

DanceFest was hosted by Ann Street Church of Christ and the One Salt Water youth ministry, with buses provided by Churches of Christ in Queensland’s Mission Division and a barbeque cooked by Churches of Christ in Queensland Community Chaplain, Haydn Parsons.

The event will be on again next school holidays and is open to youth from all churches.

Interested Hip Hoppers and their youth leaders are invited to register their interest with Jason at www.430AnnStreet.com.

More than 30 teenagers flocked to Ann Street Church of Christ for its new outreach program for young people, DanceFest.

DanceFest students showcase their new moves in a city park to the delight of CBD workers.